Calvary's Capital Campaign Funds at Work

Even though Calvary's Capital Campaign continues to run through Thanksgiving, some much needed repairs to the church building have already begun with the use of those funds. In an effort to keep the congregation apprised of these vital repairs, the Trustees will be reporting the status of various projects as they are completed.

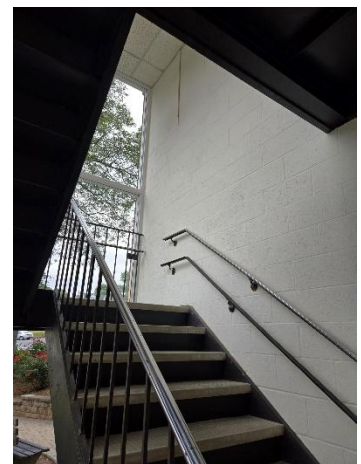

In this week's Calvary Connection, the Trustees will highlight work completed on the glass stairwell beside the main entrance off the parking lot. The stairwell was added as part of the extensive renovations that took place back in 1989-1990. While being aesthetically pleasing, the very nature of its glass walls creates a greenhouse effect... it can become very hot and humid in that stairwell. Over the past 35 years, excessive moisture and humidity, coupled with minimal maintenance, had caused rust and corrosion on both interior and exterior surfaces of the stairwell, to the point that the integrity of the structure was in question. Fortunately, the stairwell was found to be structurally sound, and restoration could begin.

Rust and corrosion were grinded from the exterior and interior; holes were plugged and patched. Everything outside and inside was prepped, caulked, primed, and painted; water-stained ceiling tiles were replaced, and the glass panels were re-sealed. This work was done by Uhrig's Professional Painting and Paperhanging, of Reading, PA, at a cost of $19,300.

After

Still to be done... a roofer needs to examine the roof area above the stairwell for any areas that could cause leaking. Going forward... closer monitoring and maintenance of the stairwell needs to occur on a more frequent basis.
